The 1945 Wyo

Reflection of the future for one
And all, we see a great man welcomed
In front of knowledge hall. We all
Extend our welcome to the savior
Of the free, and give a hand of Gratitude, on that we all agree.

Dedication

... Dr. J. L. Morrill... friend, teacher, counselor, leader... to you we dedicate this 1945 WYO. Through this yearbook, we give, in part, our thanks to you for helping to make the University of Wyoming, a University to be proud of... for leading us through a war time curriculum... for setting our standards high. It is with regrets and best wishes that we say "so long" as you leave the "ole corral."

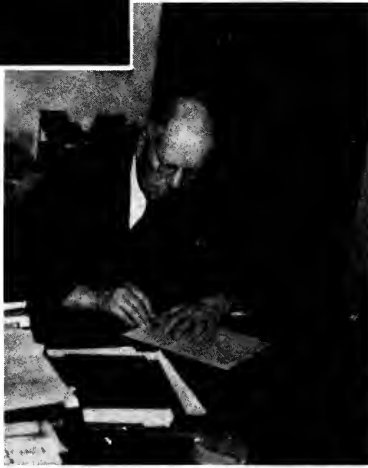

DR. J. L. MORRILL
President of the University of Wyoming

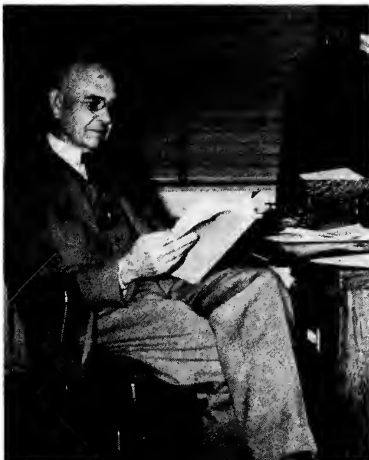

DEAN JOHN A. HILL

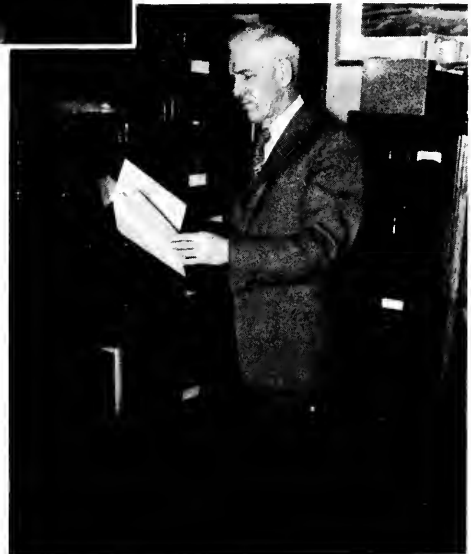

MISS IDA J. MOEN

DEAN R. D. GOODRICH

DEAN P. T. MILLER

DEAN O. C. SCHWEIRING

Administration

The task of providing a well-rounded wartime curriculum has been placed on the shoulders of the administration . . . the registrar, the Board of Trustees, the board of deans, and the deans of men and women students. It is through these men and women that the University has maintained its standard of scholarship, leadership, and activity. To set policies and determine rules of study, curricula, and conduct has been a job well-done, and one for which we give our thanks.

DEAN B. C. DALY

DR. J. R. MacNEEL

DEAN E. LUELLA GALLIVER

The cloud filled skys above them now
Are blue Wyoming skys, and now and then
The wind is heard, its loud and mournful crys
And they are glad to hear the sounds
Of far off western gales, "back home again
For keeps" they say, and mean it, every word.

Calendar

October

Pledge week at the Tri Delt House.

. . . Back-slapping men and smiling women . . . utter confusion . . . seldom-worn bonnets . . . "tooth paste ad" smiles . . . Rush week. Green and bewildered scores of Freshmen were initiated into the hectic throes of Rush week, a week, climaxed by formal pledging, and followed by the dull routine of books and classes with a little Unionology interposed.

Lines . . . Lines . . . Lines . . . Registration Books . . . Advisors . . . Schedules . . . Prof's signatures . . . Lines . . . Lines . . . Lines . . . then after hours of standing comes that sigh of relief accompanied by a weak exclamation, "At last I'm registered!"

All dressed up to attend the Dean's Tea.

Spare the paddle, please fellows!

Barbara and Barbara, on Columbus Day.

The opening entertainment of the fall quarter was A.W.S. Canteen Night held at the Student Union October 14th, with square dancing, rug-cutting, bridge and other card games blowing the whistle for the beginning of the social whirl.

Hostess at her annual tea was Dean E. Luella Galliver, who greeted an estimated 300 Freshmen and new women. The girls were introduced socially to the Dean in the Union ballroom.

Too bad Clair, looks like the Phi Delts won.

International Relations Club members from seven Rocky Mountain colleges and universities met here at Wyoming U. October 27-28 for the first time since 1936. Dr. H. J. Peterson faculty advisor of the club, and Miss Lyell Knight, president, directed all plans for the conference. Round-table discussions were held, dealing with post-war peace plans and world organizations.

Check-book programs and the various fraternity crests carried out the theme of the fall quarter Interfraternity Ball held November 10th in the Union Ball-room with music furnished by Jimmy Meyer's orchestra.

"Victory, victory is our cry . . ."

Who doesn't understand who? ??

November

First student production of the year was the three-act play "My Sister Eileen" presented November 16th under the direction of J. Edwin Culbertson, and sponsored by the University of Wyoming English Department and Theta Alpha Pi. "My Sister Eileen" was a tremendous success and provided highly amusing entertainment in the description of all sorts of untoward incidents in the dilemmas of the Sherwood Girls.

Walking it down at the basketball dinner . . . "Dreamboat" Brown looks like he's enjoying it.

You are going the general direction of Hoyt Hall aren't you fellows? ? ? ?

The Wyoming Cowboys vs. Casper Army Air Field basketball clash brought about the election of cheer leaders at the year's first pep assembly held November 28th. Cheerleaders chosen were Katie Swanton, Phyllis Lieurance, Earlene Coombs, Lenore Burford and Art Allen.

Pepping it up, and I do mean up . . . Lenore Burford looks as if she's reaching for a cloud . . .

Looks to me like "li'l Phyllis" is ready to go to the Inter-Fraternity Ball.

This looks like Pledge Activity Day at the Chi Omega House.

To usher in the yuletide season, a narration entitled "The Life of Christ" which featured Christmas scenes, carols and chants was presented December 8th. An impressive church setting suggested by the stage and appropriate costumes combined with the singing to produce that timeless atmosphere of Christmas.

December

Pat Tobin seems to have lost the rest of the party.

The holiday spirit held sway as all social groups on the campus enjoyed final functions before closed week. One of the gayest of these affairs was the Snowball All-University Fall Formal sponsored by the Independents which took place in the Union Ballroom with music furnished by Jimmy Meyer's orchestra.

They all writ their letters and now they is all awaitin' for Santy . . .

These numerous week-end functions brought to a close the social life of the quarter and ushered in Dead Week, that dreadful lull before the storm, namely FINALS. Four days of brain-wracking cramming and sleepless nights at last were over and students wearily headed for home to recuperate during the Christmas holidays.

Annalyl cramming with Morpheus . . . one good course in dreamland.

After two weeks of vacation, then we went to the station, returned to old familiar haunts, renewed friendships, re-opened our books and started another quarter in this institution of higher learning.

Time . . . any, Place . . . Union Lounge, the proverbial bridge session.

In winter it's women's . . . and Boles fancy is Rogers, any season . .

The Wyoming Cowboys engaged Brigham Young University in the first inter-collegiate game of nearly two years Friday, January 19th, at the famous "Half-acre" ushering in the basketball season. Our lively cheerleaders with the cooperation of the student body added to the zest and color of this game and those following.

Art Allen and friends seem to be stuck in the snow, and happy about it too.

Our Campus, beautiful.

January

One of the many mixers held in the Union Ball Room.

Ski jaunts to Summit . . . snowball fights . . . hot chocolate in the Union . . . the beginning of a new quarter and resolutions to really study this time. Resolutions made to be broken, and the old question . . . "Whose got a deck of cards . . . like to sit in on a bridge game?"

Tuesday night mixers in the Union, everyone enjoying this weekly dance given by the Independents . . . those more than comfortable, but not a bit private couches in the Lounge . . . the Union is a pretty wonderful hangout come January and its cold blasts.

Terrific man shortage, what with the girls shoveling their own walks . . .

Registration . . . what again! Lines, lines, lines, red tape, and lines . . . the Seniors remembering those last-minute requirements . . . the Freshmen looking nonchalant, after all, this is their second registration . . . lines, lines, lines and then off to the Union for the proverbial coke, some backfence gossip, and already reminiscing about Christmas vacation.

Here we see Mike giving the on-lookers a few lessons in stemming.

Everyone appropriately dressed in their western togs attended the Cowboy Ball sponsored by the Ag Club on February 9th, following the Utah game. Many and varied western outfits were in evidence, levis predominating, and a rarin' good time was had by all!

Oscar Wilde's satirical play, "The Importance of Being Earnest," opening a series of Penthouse Plays to be given monthly, was presented in the Union Lounge February 27th. Principal roles were portrayed by Pat Stoddard, Willard Roth, Elva Mae Robb, Ann Clark and John Those. This production was so well received that another performance was presented the following day. The purpose of these dramatic projects is to familiarize the student body with interesting dramatic approaches to the classics.

Elva Mae Robb and John Thode in "The Importance of Being Earnest."

The annual Pan-Hellenic Ball, always one of the outstanding dances of the year, was held in the Union Ballroom Saturday, February 17th. The lighted emblems of each member sorority on the campus served as the theme of the Ball.

The Grand March . . . a parade of the bizarre.

February

The winnahs! ! oo la la such brazen hussies! ! !

U. W. co-eds turned out en masse for the annual A.W.S. Co-Ed Costume Ball held in the Union Ballroom February 22nd. Countless costumes displaying "sky-limit" originality were evident in the grand march, from which were chosen three prize-winning costumes—the funniest, the prettiest and the most original. This has become a traditional affair on our campus, and as in previous years proved a huge success.

The one nice day in March, and the Chi Omegas spent it house cleaning.

This snap was taken on a more typical day in March.

Invitations were received by thirty-five outstanding campus personalities to attend the 8th annual Gridiron Banquet, sponsored by Blue Pencil, held Thursday, March 8th. This affair is in the nature of a "gripe" session, and as in years before, the Gridironsters were deeply concerned with better promotion and boosting of the university. Each year the characteristic red derby hats are presented to the boy and girl chosen by the group as having "griped" the most, and this year Lyell Knight and John Lynn were the lucky winners.

Now let me see which is Beth and which is Bette. Russe knows!

March

The L. A. Building after a heavy snow fall.

March 13th saw the curtain rise for the first time in several years on the Varsity Show—"One, Two, Three Too Many," a tale of the hectic woes of a pretty co-ed on a wartime campus. This is the one production of the year which is written, directed and enacted entirely by student talent. This laugh-packed production upheld the tradition of a really fine Varsity Show, many hit tunes with promise of nation-wide popularity being introduced, and drew one of the largest audiences of the season.

The campus was buzzing with an activity not in evidence for several years when Wyoming University was host to the various schools throughout the state at the annual State High School Basketball Tournament held in Laramie March 14th-17th. Everyone became reasonably acquainted with the campus by attending mixers sponsored by various groups on the campus. Climaxing the four-day tourney, a big dance was held in the Union following the games Saturday night, which dance was also the final event of the university students before Dead Week.

April

Outstanding on the social calendar for April was the All-School Formal sponsored by the Veterans Club and held in the Union Ballroom with music by Jimmy Meyers.

Second in the series of Penthouse Plays was "Hedda Gabbler," Ipsen's neurotic study, presented the last of April under the combined auspices of the English Department and Theta Alpha Phi.

The usual bridge games . . . proverbial cokes, and back fence gossip prevailed. Picnics were in again and Summit was still the old stomping ground.

Everyone had fun, didn't you Brown ? ?

'Tis spring and Anderson is wasting no time . .

What? . . . More bridge . . .
Seven no trump, no doubt . . .

The tender look brought on by the bee-yoo-tee-ful (?) April weather?

Spring vacation . . . Easter parade of

The Wingless Victory

The Wingless Victory by Maxwell Anderson will be presented on the sixteenth of June. It will be part of the Commencement Program. The leading lady, Oparre will be portrayed by Arlene Krafckik. Practice for this production was started on the fourth of May. J. Edwin Culbertson was the director of this fine play.

After all Luella, he can stand alone . .

These lovely ladies are the contestants for the famed Rodeo Queen.

May

Inkslinger's Ball

The Inkslinger's Ball presented by the Blue Pencil Club was given in the Union Ball Room in May. A king and queen were chosen for the most popular boy and girl at the ball. The crowning was attractively done thru a frame of newspaper. This ball was one of the most outstanding parties of the year.

Andy Leadhead getting in a little practice before the Intercollegiate Rodeo.

Intercollegiate Rodeo

Once again the University of Wyoming Intercollegiate Rodeo Association will sponsor an intercollegiate rodeo on the campus the last of May. Many colleges from this region will be competitors for the honors. Rodeo activities will include a parade of all University groups. Stake races, riding and roping contests will be staged. A quarter mile race will be one of the highlights of the rodeo and those competing will be our fair co-eds. A Rodeo Queen will be chosen by an all-University election. The contestants for this honor are Gretchen Harris, Jeanne Ann Boles, Gerry Cox, Pat Lowe, Ruth Adams and Ruth Peterson. These girls are chosen representatives of each sorority, on the campus.

On the way to class ? ? ? I suppose not ! ! !

My mind is settled slightly on the study
Of this test, and my feet are resting lightly
On the corner of my desk, Yes I've traded
In adventure on the vividness of home.
And as the little story goes, "never more to roam."

Kappa Delta

Kappa Delta's boasting their diamond-shaped pins . . . active in top campus organizations. Kappa Delta was founded in October, 1897, at Virginia State Normal. The local chapter, Rho, was established on the Wyoming campus in May, 1914 . . . the third sorority on the campus to be granted its charter.

The National Kappa Delta chapter has the distinction of being the first sorority to become publicly active in the national emergency program . . . they appropriated $500 to Bundles for Britain and drew up their Declaration of Faith in America, with the code of Service for the Chapters.

Kappa Delta's figure prominently in campus functions . . . Pilar Loisate, who is president of Phi Sigma Iota, Spur Junior Advisor, treasurer of Mortar Board, and was chosen for WHO'S WHO, 1944-45 . . . Betty Belton, president of F. T. Lamda Delta Sigma Lambda Delta Sigma was founded at the University of Utah in 1936 and was installed on this campus on November 11, 1937. A combination fraternity and sorority, it is composed of the Alpha chapter for men and the Omega chapter for women. The organization, sponsored by the Mormon students, is characterized by a five-fold program: social, religious, scholastic, cultural, and leadership. They boast one of the finest buildings on the campus in their LDS Institute. Lambda Delts are outstanding in campus leadership . . . 19 members holding campus offices . . . sports . . . winners of the girls softball and tennis tournaments . . . and high scholarship.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

The Sig Alphas . . . a great bunch of lads with all the pep and vitality of a true Wyoming fraternity . . . for instance, Dalton, Clark, and Nostrand with their own "sales-delivery service." The SAE's finally set the ball rolling and their house is the "meeting place" of the fellows on campus spring quarter.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was founded March 9, 1856, at the University of Alabama. The local chapter of Sigma Beta Phi was installed as a chapter of S. A. E. January 26, 1917.

The outstanding members include: Russ Bugas . . . Agriculture Club, chapter president, Intramural basketball, Inter-Fraternity Council. George Nostrand . . . chapter rush-chairman, Varsity basketball, and was chosen for All-Conference at the A. A. U. meet. Bob Baker . . . Inter-Fraternity Council and Varsity basketball. The Sig Ep house is the edifice that makes Fraternity Park an honest name. The parties in the "Blue Room" and "Mad Room" help dissolve the tedium of a war-time curriculum . . . the fellows shooting the "reconstructed" basketball hoop in the Kappa's back yard . . . Bill Grenier's own private trail leading to the Pi Phi front door and Mary Storey . . . Jim Meyers' practice periods (Oh that trumpet) . . . so Fraternity Row knows the Sig Eps!

Outstanding notables in the chapter include Jim Meyers with his red hot dance band . . . Dick Seals directed and played the lead of the 1945 Varsity Show and worked in "My Sister Eileen" . . . Bill Beck and Bill Grenier carrying the ball scholastically by attaining the status of Junior in five quarters . . . Bill Grenier is president of the Wyoming chapter.

Sigma Phi Epsilon was founded at Richmond College, 1910. The Wyoming chapter was chartered in 1943. The fraternity's inherent aggressiveness as a national organization is indicated by its standing of 38th in order of founding and 12th in number of national chapters.

The Sig Ep's also claim that great notable "Blitz" who brings the chapter scholastic rating up by acquiring I's in Unionology.

Blitz pulling a fifth column on Veehar while he unsuspectingly sets a target for the paddle of Jimmy Meyers. High-jumping or basketball, or perhaps even a show for the Kappas and Pi Phis.

Sigma Nu

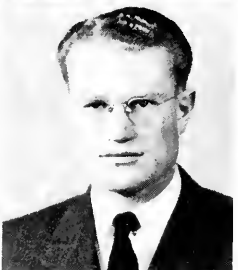

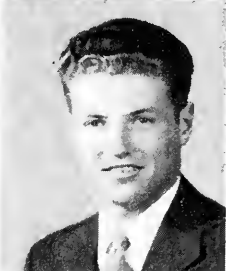

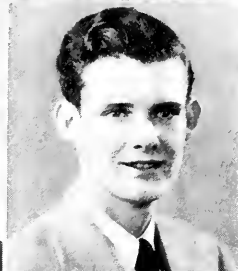

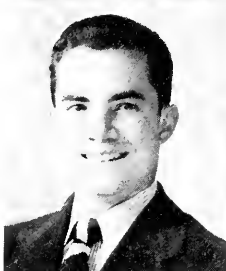

Being the largest fraternity, the Sigma Nu's have upheld the fraternity standards on the campus . . . growing from its low of one active member last year, the Epsilon Delta chapter this year reached a peak of twenty-one active members and six pledges.

Evidence of the chapter activity . . . their trophy collection, admittedly the largest and most varied on the campus . . . plans for the Chanticleer dance in the offing . . . and lest we forget, the house parties which helped to bring some of the old college spirit back to the University.

The Sigma Nu's copped the Intramural Basketball championship . . . the team included Paul Godfrey, Jess Winzenried, Don Irwin, Kenneth Kennedy, Jack Boyd, Tom Bell, Gene Binning, Bill Curry, and J. C. Schuetz. A six-man football team was also organized, although the schedule for Intramural football was never carried through to completion.

Student activity men . . . Elliot Hays, Student Senate and Alpha Kappa Psi . . . John Lynn, Gamma Sigma Epsilon, past-president of the chapter, and WHO'S WHO . . . Jess Winzenried, Alpha Kappa Psi and WHO'S WHO . . . Tom Gore, Sigma Tau and Phi Kappa Phi . . . Dick Hall, Alpha Kappa Psi and WHO'S WHO . . . Gene Binning, Engineering Club and Intramural basketball . . . James Baker, Branding Iron, WYO STAFF, and one of the leads in the 1945 Varsity Show . . . Eight members of the Veterans Club . . . Seven members and five pledges have been called into the armed forces since fall quarter.

AWS Board

All women students of the University are members of the Associated Women students. To this association the president and faculty entrust the management of all matters concerning the conduct of women students in their University life that are not academic in nature and that do not fall under the jurisdiction of ASUW. All legislative power is vested in a board which is composed of representatives selected from various organizations on the campus and chosen at large.

*S*erving to promote interest and activity in every phase of agricultural work is the Agriculture club, whose membership is open to all students enrolled in the college of agriculture. Yearly this active organization sponsors the Little International Exposition and helps finance the stock judging teams, holds an annual banquet and spring picnic, as well as playing host to the state F.F.A. delegates who participate in the state livestock judging contests, crops contest and farm mechanics contest. Andy Leithead is president of this organization.

Gamma Sigma Epsilon

Virginia DelMonte snapped in the union.

Theta Alpha chapter of Gamma Sigma Epsilon, national honorary chemical fraternity, was installed on the Wyoming campus on May 25, 1932. The national organization was founded at Davidson College, North Carolina, in 1919.

The fraternity seeks to advance the cause of chemical education, and membership in the organization is open to chemistry majors with high scholastic averages. A large number of faculty members in the field serve as honorary members.

Virginia Del Monte is Grand Alchemist of Gamma Sigma Epsilon. Margaret Eaton is Recorder, Willa Dee Davis holds the office of Sergeant at Arms, and L. E. Walter, state chemist, is Visor.

The Independent Student association was organized on the Wyoming campus in 1932. Since that time the club has become a member of the Rocky Mountain Independent Student Association and the National Independent Association.

Membership consists of all students not connected with fraternities and sororities on the campus. Activities include business meetings and dancing every Monday evening, quarterly formal dances.

Independent officers are Marian Jacobson, president; Barbara Williams, vice president; Opal Bircher, secretary-treasurer; Helen Michaelson, woman senate member; Hugh Souest, man senate member.

Note the pleased expression.

Fraternity Park Dormitory

The Kappa Sigma fraternity house has been converted into a men's residence for the duration, housing 18 men. This residence is known as Fraternity Park dormitory. During the year several house parties and formal dances have been held and residents participated in many campus activities. John Killeen is president of Fraternity Park dormitory.

Must have been a cold day "B.J."

Hoyt Hall

Eighty-nine girls are housed in Hoyt Hall. Leader of this group is Betty Jean Pyle of Rapid City, South Dakota. Many of the girls find it difficult to follow the many house rules but manage to do very well.

Semi-weekly teas serve as excellent means of getting acquainted in this dormitory. Cooking facilities in the basement are used by the girls for small parties throughout the week.

Margaret Voight glances up from her work.

Knight Hall

Newest dormitory on the campus, Knight Hall houses one hundred and fifteen girls. This beautiful hall has an excellent dining room where the girls take their lunch and dinner. An annex on Knight Hall is the popular cafeteria which provides meals for many college students and faculty.

Knight Hall has given several successful parties this year, including open-houses for the Hoyt Hall girls and for the AST Unit. The group has been under the leadership of Margaret Voight this year.

Veteran's Club

This newly organized group has been very active this year. Its membership consists of veterans of World War II. Jack Gillete heads this group and Elliot Hays represents them in the student senate.

Inter-Fraternity Council

The Interfraternity Council of the University of Wyoming is headed by C. E. Anderson, who is the president of the group. Each fraternity selects 2 delegates to sit in this council. These members of the inter-fraternity council work for cooperation among all fraternities. A member of this group holds a place on the senate. Two formal dances were held in the Union Ball Room, sponsored by the inter-fraternity council. This council works for better coordination of the different fraternities on the campus.

Pan-Hellenic Council

Any woman affiliated with a national woman's fraternity is a member of a larger group called Panhellenic. On every university campus is a Panhellenic council established for the purpose of sponsoring friendly relations and a cooperative spirit between sororities. This council at Wyoming represents the six sororities on the campus and makes rules regarding rushing and supervises rush week activities. Each quarter a Panhellenic ball is held. Mary McCronin served as Panhellenic president for the year of 1944-1945.

The purpose of this national honorary society is primarily to advance the science of psychology and secondly to encourage standard and maintain scholarship of the individual members in all academic fields, particularly in psychology. Anyone having completed twelve hours of psychology, stand in the upper third of their psychology class, in the upper one-half in all other subjects, and who is either a major or minor in the field is eligible for membership in this organization.

Psi Chi

Established as the first honorary on the campus, Delta chapter of Phi Upsilon Omicron, national professional home economics fraternity, was founded in 1915 at Wyoming university. Membership is limited to those students who have completed their sophomore year in the field. Scholarship, service and professional attitude are factors considered in choosing members. The activities of the organization are social, professional, and educational in nature. Mary Louise Thompson has served as president this year.

The Newman Club of the University of Wyoming has grown steadily since its founding in 1921. In the year of its installation on the campus it was admitted to the international organization, the Newman Club Federation, Catholic organization. The purpose and activities of the club are three-fold: Religion, Educational, and Social. These are carried out in retreats, lectures and discussion-study clubs as well as in parties, dances and picnics. Membership to the club is open to all Catholic students at the University. Mary McCrohan has served as president this year.

*W*yoming Spurs, one of fifteen national Spur chapters, was organized on this campus in 1928. It is composed of three outstanding sophomore girls from each organization on the campus. The Spurs' activities this year included attending all the athletic events in a body, sponsoring the World Student Service fund, sixth war loan, Red Cross drive, ushering at assemblies and the police whistle campaign to keep people from walking on the grass. The group is for the promotion of school spirit and participation in all campus activities. Margaret Thompson heads the group as president. Other officers are Jeanne Cranney, vice president; Beth Bautch, secretary; Rose Calibrero, treasurer.

Theta Alpha Phi was founded on the campus June 12, 1921, and is composed of University of Wyoming students and alumni who have been outstanding in theatre work. The aim of this national dramatics honorary is to promote a greater interest in dramatics, a greater support of the University theatre, and to develop theatrical talent. Eight major productions were presented this year under the auspices of Theta Alpha Phi and directed by J. Edwin Culbertson. Pat Stoddard is president.

Phi Gamma Nu

This professional commerce sorority was founded at Northwestern University. Aims of Phi Gamma Nu are to develop a spirit of emulation among the women students of commerce and business administration, and to further academic study and to promote a standard of high scholarship. Mary Cook is leader of this group.

The senate chamber filled with voices
Speaking out their views,
The B. I. staff in constant hurry
Looking 'round for news,
These groups are working for one thing
A greater student body . . .

Activities

 Standing left to right are: Hugh Soest, Elliot Hays, Paul Rechard, Connie Walker, Ruth Christenson, Marguerite Brown and Bob Burwell.

Student Senate

Selection of the cheerleaders, publication of the Branding Iron, formation of the social calendar, in all these, and many others, the Senate is our representative body. Through a series of standing and special committees, the most important of which are, Executive, finance, Wyoming Union managing, general activities, publication, and social, the efficiency of this organization is maintained.

Miss Lyell Knight, president of A.S.U.W.

An informal chat of the Executive Committee.

Kelley was late as usual for this meeting of the Finance Committee.

That's an important phone call being made by James "Scoop" Kelley budget-conscious student manager, and exploiter of the "Ding Dong Daddy" story.

. . . Active legislative body . . . supervisor of student activities . . . representative of student interests . . . manifold tasks . . . the Student Senate. Ably lead by its President, Lyell Knight, the Senate was foremost in promoting the Student Health Service, the revival of the WYO, the redecoration of the Student Union, the revitalization of the Varsity Show, and the publication of the black list.

It must have been posed, because it's editor Elinor Thomas at work.

Vern Vivion explaining about photography and later Frances Jacobs will give a dissertation on Ivory Flakes.

Mr. Stahlhut looks up from his work for a moment to have his picture snapped.

1945 Wyo

Staff members, Joanne Hagist and Marilyn Gutz checking their long list of advertisers.

. . . Coming back to the campus after a two year absence, the WYO, is once again pictorializing campus life. Writing copy, checking pictures, writing captions . . . the staff of the WYO has worked tirelessly on a speeded-up program.

Financing the yearbook this year was done entirely through student sales and advertising; the business staff, under the supervision of Bob Stahlhut, has canvassed both state and local advertisers.

Special credit must be given Vern Vivion for his excellent work in photography . . . most of the informal shots in the annual were snapped, developed, and printed by Vern. Mr. James C. Stratton, in the capacity of faculty advisor, has been invaluable.

It takes all three to make this annual, health strength and courage.

Miss Gibbon, in background, acts very hard at work,

Baker, please remove that hat!

After checking rewrites for a full hour Lois Del Monte stands up for a slight stretch.

Branding Iron

... Reporter of campus events ... reflector of student opinion ... social and political recorder of the University ... the Branding Iron. Every Thursday morning the paper is read between lecture notes; every Thursday, discussion of the news over a coke in the Union.

Pat Tobin as managing editor of the Branding Iron is commended for her outstanding editorials and complete coverage of the news. Desk editor, Lois Del Monte, copyreading and rewriting stories, should also be given special credit for an outstanding newspaper.

Ethel Sorgen, business manager of the Branding Iron did a fine job this year in canvassing Laramie and bringing advertising above the quota set by preceding staffs. Circulation manager, Frances Cullen, saw to it that everyone got a copy of the B.I.

Only one B.I. to a person, Frances, you said so yourself.

Efficient Staff

Managing editor Pat Tobin looking over the results of her work . . . That pleased expression must mean that Patty didn't make the Winchellized 'Strictly from . . . "

Miss Sorgen, B. I. Business Manager, will soon have writers cramp.

Cuddles, youre working at this posing much too hard. .

Varsity Show

The very capable Varsity Show staff, discussing their show.

The smiling cast of the Varsity Show.

After two years absence, the annual Varsity Show, entirely written, produced, and directed by students we all know, came back to be one of the year's outstanding achievements.

Ranking right along with the 1942 Show, regional ASCAP winner, this year's entertainment was worthy of peace-time recognition, although ASCAP awards have been discontinued for the duration.

Lucy is at "it" again.

Campus personalities who will be remembered for their ability in producing such a great show are: Dick Seals, competent and untiring director and dashing hero of the plot; Jerry Payne, Frances Clark, Charlotte Perdue, and John Anderson, writers and composers extraordinary, with songs to be remembered by us all; Virginia Del Monte, who set the ball rolling and acted as the show's financial advisor; Connie Clem and Kay Phelps, whose settings and lighting effects contributed greatly. Also, Margretha Gietz, Donna Jean Frey, Pat Stoddard, Frances Cullen, John Kileen, Marion Howard, and many more.

The plot of "One, Two, Three Too Many" revolves around "Peaches," played by Phyllis Lieurance, who finds it all too easy to feel sorry for three lone campus fellows, lone because of the obvious disadvantages of a 30 to 1 campus preponderance of females. Credit is given to Lucy Nichols and Jim Baker for their portrayals of the scatterbrain man-chaser and the "BMOC." The musical numbers, sung by Elaine Manley, Lucy Nichols, Phyllis Lieurance, Betty Canary, Phyllis Batman, Bob Burwell, Jim Baker, Dick Seals, and Dave Cordiner, added to the essence of the theme.

Remember "Stars on the Campus," "I Went Looking for a Rainbow," "Hard to Get," "He Won't Say Yes," and "My Heart Remembered?"

"One, Two, Three Too Many" was woven with lots of clever twists in the weave . . . and it all came out an amusing musical production.

John Welsh has that look of approval, and we can see why.

These star gazers need very little coaching.

Earlene Coombs gives Phyllis that glance of admiration.

"Graceful" is the word.

Loads of fun was had by all those rehearsing "My Sister Eileen."

Very worthy of applause

Dramatics on the University of Wyoming campus, under the direction of J. Edwin Culbertson, hit an all-time high during the year 1944-45, by scoring eight major productions under the auspices of Theta Alpha Phi, national dramatics honorary.

The opening fall show on November 16, 1944, was the riotous comedy, "My Sister Eileen," written by Joseph Fields, and Jerome Chodorov. The production, complete with a cast of forty people, featured Lucille Nichols and Phyllis Lieurance in the major roles.

Elva Mae Robb and John in "The Importance of Being Earnest."

"The Life of Christ," taken from the St. James version of the Bible, added special meaning to the fourth war-time Christmas season at the University. Especially commendable was the performance of J. Edwin Culbertson, director of dramatics on the campus.

Drama

Three performances of the first penthouse production, "The Importance of Being Earnest," by Oscar Wilde, brought a new style of drama presentation to the campus. The productions on February 27, February 28, and March 1, 1945 in the Union lounge, were the beginning of a series of shows to acquaint the students with the classics. Patricia Stoddard was featured in the role of Lady Brackness.

April of the 1945 Spring quarter was again highlighted with the production of the second penthouse play, Ibsen's "Hedda Gabbler," with Elizabeth Gibbon playing the title role.

The concluding show of the season was Maxwell Anderson's "Wingless Victory," presented as the 1945 commencement play.

Well said, Miss Stodard.

Miss Clark and Miss Robb gave a fine air of conflict in this scene in "The Importance of Being Earnest."

Basketball Returns to

"Hell's Half Acre"

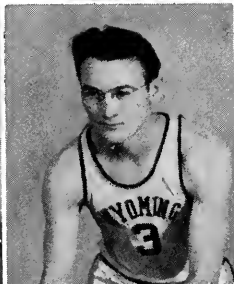

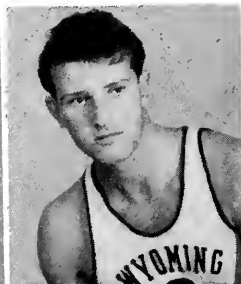

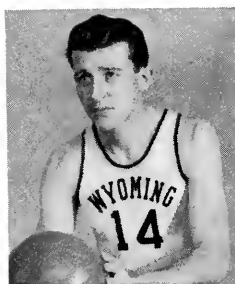

Basketball coach "Ev" Shelton poses for the camera in his office.

Once again, after a year's vacancy, the half-acre gymnasium of the basketball-famed University of Wyoming felt the impact of basketball teams pounding on its floor and rang again with the excitement of screaming crowds and referee's whistles. Coach Ev Shelton had come back to Wyoming and was once again converting a group of fellows, most of them freshmen, into a team of regular hardwood experts. The team this year didn't live up to the 1943 national champions' record, but the outlook for the future is better than bright since all the team is returning with the possible addition of "Shadow" Ray and Milo Komenich, two of the 1943 champs.

Jim Fagen (no. 16) starts on a fast break as the "Punchers" take the ball away from Denver University.

CAPELLAN, WARREN

ELIOPULOS, GEORGE

FAGEN, JIM

The squad this year was comparatively small, but this is to be expected, and for the small number of men enrolling for basketball, the boys can be considered exceptional. Only thirteen men played in competition this season and Wyoming letters were awarded to only ten men. Those men lettering were Bob Baker, "Stretch" Brown, Ted Campman, Warren Capellan, George Eliopulos, Jim Fagen, George Nostrand, Bob Porter, Ted Rogers, and Vern Vivion. Of these letter-men, six are freshmen. This is the first year that freshmen have been able to play varsity ball on the regular Cowboy team.

George Nostrand was the third high point man in the Big Seven Conference this season with a total of TWO HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-SIX POINTS. This is an average of about seventeen points a game which is really hitting the ole bucket, on anyone's basketball team. The six foot, nine inch center plans to be back on the Cowboy squad again next season.

"Stretch" Brown stretching to help Cappie take the ball away from a member of the Colorado Aggie hoop expert.

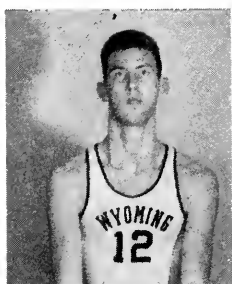

Porter throws a high one in to Jim Fagen who in turn tips it into the bucket while Rogers (no. 5) really tells "Shorty" off.

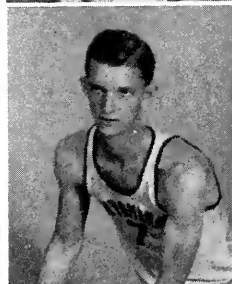

The team is exceptionally tall this year, with only three of the thirteen men under six feet. George Nostrand, six-foot nine-inch Cowboy center is one of the tallest men in the Big Seven Conference this year. Other tall boys on the Cowboy squad this year are Bob Porter, six-foot, four-inch forward; George Eliopulos, six-foot, three-inch guard; "Stretch" Brown, six-foot, two-inches and Warren Capellan, Bud Johnson, Kay Robinson and Vern Vivion hitting the six feet mark. Those under six feet are speedy Bob Baker, Ted Campman, Ted Rogers, and Jim Fagen.

During the Christmas vacation this year ten of the Cowboys made a trip East where they ran up against some of the nation's best basketball quintets. The teams played on the eastern tour were University of Michigan, University of Kentucky, Long Island University, Temple University, and Ohio State University. The games were played during the first part of the Cowboy's season and we had little opportunity for practice and hence, we lost all our eastern games.

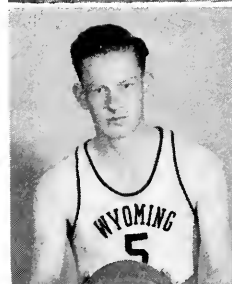

The Cowboys were beaten by De Paul University in early December when the Cowboys visited the windy city of Chicago.

VIVION, VERN

Down goes Nostrand in the rough-and-tumble Wyoming-C. U. game. Wonder where the rest of the Cowboys are?

In one of Wyoming's hardest fought games of the season, the Cowboys bowed to the powerful Colorado University aggregation in a 41 to 43 overtime period game. Although the game ended in defeat for the Cowboys, Wyoming fans were proud of the ball handling exhibited by the Punchers. At the half-time the game looked like a walk-away for the Buffalos with the score at that times showing a 30 to 18 in their favor. But with the hard-fighting and straight-shooting of the entire Cowboy squad, the gun fired ending the game in a 41 to 41 tie. In the overtime period that followed Wyoming was a little too anxious to get the ball and fouled a Colorado player who made both of his free throws. Final score . . . C. U. 43; Wyoming 41. This game was one of the outstanding games played on "Hell's Half Acre" this season.

Colorado's seven foot center, Ellefson goes high for a rebound and comes down on Porter. This game proved that the Cowboys were really in the running.

The Athletic Board of Control decided not to have Spring football practice this year because it was the general opinion that there would not be enough men here next year to have an acceptable team next fall. But football coach B. F. Oaks has plans for the future and possibly year after next the time will come for football to return to Wyoming.

This year Mr. Oaks was the director of the State High School Basketball Tournament and much of the success of the tournament is due to his expert management.

Intramural Basketball Tournament Is Success

About the only intramural sports to show any activity on the campus at all this year was the intramural basketball tournament. Five teams entered the tournament this season. These teams were the Sigma Nu team, the Capellan independents, the L. D. S. independents, the "Unlucky Five," and the Allen independents. The Sigma Nu team won the intramural tournament, going through the entire tournament undefeated. Paul Godfery, six-foot three-inch center for the Sigma Nu's, was the high point man in the tournament.

Basketball makes up one of the major parts of the women's physical education program. On this page are . . .

Co-Eds Are Also Active in Sports

Among those activities carried on in the women's physical education department include archery, basketball, swimming, life saving, calisthenics, and baseball. Under the able direction of Mrs. Moxley, Miss Thoin, and Miss Campbell the women's p. e. coaches, the co-eds on the University of Wyoming have a well rounded physical course.

All the co-eds are required to take physical education for the first two years at the mile-high campus of the University of Wyoming. Women taking a physical education major in their college work have to take physical education courses throughout their stay in school. Miss Campbell, head of the women's physical education department, has approximately three hundred and fifty girls registered in the p. e. department.

A couple of shots taken of the women's teams in action.

Physical Education

All able bodied men of the University of Wyoming are required to take physical education. Mr. Bearley and Mr. Cedar are the heads of the department and the activities include basketball, touch football, softball, swimming, calisthenics and tumbling. The physical education majors on the campus are required to enroll in p. e. during their entire college course. Many of the coaches in this and other states are men who have taken their training at Wyoming.

Business Manager Robert Stahlhut
. . . "congratulations" for a job well done.*

To future students and staffs—a reminder that Kistler's is more than a printing plant and stationery store.

At Kistler's you will find an understanding of your problems. From the production of an annual, the printing of a dance program, to the selection of a gift, Kistler's is ready to give ideas and service.
